ATLANTA'S HONORED GUESTS.

The city of Atlanta is today host to the organization committee of the new currency system.

Significantly, the full committee meets here together for the first time in its history.

John Skelton Williams, comptroller of the currency and a member of the committee, arrives in Atlanta to deliberate with his fellow-committeemen.

For several weeks the two other members, David Houston, secretary of agriculture, and W. O. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury, have been touring the country, hearing the claims of cities that are candidates for federal regional banks.

Mr. Williams will sit with them in Atlanta for the first time.

Few events in the history of the city are of more vital importance than the hearings here of the organization committee.

Upon the verdict of the committee, as regards Atlanta, influences of a financial, industrial and commercial nature must project themselves for many years into the future.

If the verdict is favorable to Atlanta's aspirations for a regional bank, and that consummation is almost foregone, these influences will be almost incalculably constructive.

Aside from the serious business aspects of the occasion, there is a strong and important consideration of some, all of them.

By rare coincidence, all three members of the committee are southern-born men.

McAdoo, the "tunnel-builder," the man who connected Manhattan with the mainland, is a native Georgian.

Houston, one of the pioneers of modern and common sense agriculture, an evangel of the new and broader era on the acres, is a native of North Carolina.

Williams, constructor of railroads and master-builder in industrial finance, is a native of Virginia.

These men, therefore, feel at home in Atlanta; Atlanta feels at home with these men.

It is a work of supererogation for The Constitution to present the case of Atlanta to the organization committee.

That task has been delegated to a special committee of Atlanta, all of them specialists in their respective field, each of them surcharged with civic pride, each of them conscious of the gravity of the opportunity and inspired by the zeal of conviction.

The committee sits as a jury, impartially, more, as a judicial tribunal, that will not, as some juries, be swayed by arguments of sentiment or rhetoric, but by the detached logic of the situation.

Atlanta's committee is faultlessly equipped to plead Atlanta's case effectively before such a body.

THEY KNOW THIS CITY IS THE FINANCIAL CAPITAL OF THE SOUTH-EAST.

That fact speaks in its record of clearings, in its volume and sectional range of business, in its command of facilities for communication and transportation, in its peculiar strategic location.

ON THESE COUNTS ATLANTA EXPECTS TO WIN. SHE ENTERS THE CONTEST ASSURED THAT THE MAJORITY OF THE NATIONAL BANKS OF GEORGIA, OF THE NATIONAL BANKS

OUTSIDE OF GEORGIA, OF FINANCIERS OF NATIONAL REPUTE, HAVE VOLUNTARILY WRITTEN THEIR INDORSEMENT OF HER CLAIMS.

Where conditions are arguments the evidence proceeds almost automatically to its own logical conclusion.

Alabama propositions have been made to the end that the stay of our distinguished guests shall be worth while, socially.

The Constitution welcomes them on behalf of the people of Atlanta.

The president could not have selected three Americans better fitted to remold the foundations of that currency system that attends the very existence of the nation.

Their mission is epochal and it is in capable hands.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

The nation yesterday celebrated the 165th anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln.

Ceremonies were not sectional.

They were abundant throughout the north, east and west.

Here and there in the south men who bore arms under the stars and bars did tribute to the memory of the man whose spirit fired the hosts that defeated them.

And even where there was no formal gathering, the mind of every thoughtful southerner, whether of ante or post-bellum days, dwelt with reverence and genuine veneration upon the character and the greatness of the martyred president.

Lincoln was statesmanship and patriotism raised to the highest power.

His devotion, his clear vision, his freedom from cant, his scorn of tricks make the brand of public men we often turn to now, as we saw a caricature, seem flat, stale and unprofitable.

Had he lived the south would have been spared the cataclysm of reconstruction. It would have been "back in the house of its fathers" many decades ago.

As it is, time has worked its conjurer's magic.

The sun at meridian has cleared away the miasmas of hate and prejudice.

We of the south today know and rate Lincoln at his true worth.

If it is given to the great in Valhalla to look down upon our world and fleeting little dramas and comedies, the mighty soul of Lincoln exults in his handwork which Providence, in its own good season, has blessed and "found good."

SOUTH TO THE FORE HONORING LINCOLN

Joe Blackburn, Ex-Senator and Confederate Officer, Sinks the First Spade in Breaking Ground.

Washington, February 12.—While the nation was celebrating the birthday of the Virginian hero who stands the Lincoln monument at Arlington, a bareheaded Confederate officer broke the breaking of the ground for the construction of the marble memorial to the president against whom he fought a half century ago.

Blackburn was the first to sink a spade into the ground, and then with uncovered head he spoke in high praise of the memory of the president against whom he fought a half century ago. "This memorial is a monument to the greatest of all Americans," said Senator Blackburn, "and that is the reason why we are here today. It is a monument to the man who saved the Union, and who gave us the greatest of all gifts, the right of free speech."

TWO MORE BBS WILL GET CITY LICENSES

Favorable Report on Beavers and Central Clubs—Franklin Club Turned Down.

Despite widespread agitation against Atlanta local clubs and beer near the city, the city council has granted the Beavers and the Central clubs, and when council meets Monday afternoon the committee will recommend that both organizations be authorized to operate.

On the application of the Franklin club the committee unanimously signed an adverse report. This action meant that the efforts of a number of newspaper writers to organize a social club with a buffet feature will count for nothing.

Minister John E. McCallister, former third ward alderman, appeared before the committee and made an impassioned plea for the club. He said that the club was a social club, and that it was not a beer club.

Bolling Jones Explains How Atlanta Can Help Postoffice

Postmaster Bolling H. Jones told the Ad. Men club yesterday that the postoffice at the Ansley hotel is an important way in which they could co-operate with the postoffice service, and help Atlanta secure the best in the country.

At the close of his address the Ad. Men passed a resolution endorsing the methods suggested by the postmaster, and pledged him their hearty support in getting the public to comply with his suggestions.

The most vital suggestion made by him was that business men see to it that their letters are signed and in the postoffice by 2 o'clock in the afternoon, so that the clerks can get the letters off on the afternoon train. "At present," said the postmaster, "my business men of Atlanta are not seeing to it that their mail is in the post office by 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and the result is that every day, between the hours of 4 and 7 o'clock in the evening, there are over 15,000 letters piled up in the postoffice, and the clerks are unable to get them off on the train."

Other points made by the postmaster were: 1. Cut slots in door for the reception of mail, so the carrier can deliver mail if door is closed. 2. Residences should have receptacles at the front door to receive mail in the morning, and to keep postmen waiting at each door.

He is also heavily fined on Three Charges—Mother-in-Law in Court.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES FROM DAY TO DAY

An interesting announcement of Thursday was the purchase by W. H. Allen, of the Edwin P. Ansley agency, of the old Five Point plantation of 6,400 acres, in Jones county, from Dr. Glover, for a consideration of $75,000.

He will also use it for general agricultural purposes. Already Mr.

Streeter has built a new commissary and about twenty new farm houses upon the plantation and farmers' families are moving in. Much of the land is now being cleared for cultivation.

Piedmont Heights.
The Piedmont Heights subdivision, which Mr. Allen bought about eighteen months ago from Harry Etheridge for a consideration of $25,000, has now sold been sold but three lots, which have again been subdivided.

WIRELESS MESSAGES NEW YORK TO BERLIN

New York, February 12.—Wireless

On the invitation of the company practically all of the New York newspapers and the Associated Press sent messages of greeting to the Berlin newspapers, the Wolffs' bureau, German

Several replies were received among them one from Mr. Gerard, which read: "The more Germany and America know each other, the greater will be their friendship. The great achievement in wireless communication will

The Sayville station, which sent the messages, is about 4,000 miles from the Nouen station, 25 miles from

Conditions for wireless transmission were perfect today, according to the experts who handled the messages, so that little difficulty was experienced in reading the replies sent from Nouen.

(From The St. Louis Post-Dispatch.)
Confucianism having been adopted as the established religion of the Chinese republic, the first important move doubtless will be to send aggressive missionaries to heathen California.
